1 Measures to account for production	X	All activities relating to nuclear materials — as well as radioactive materials — in the civilian area are monitored by the Federal Agency for Nuclear Control (FANC). The Act of 15 April 1994 establishing FANC sets up a monitoring system (nuclear inspectors). The major relevant legal standards are as follows: -EURATOM Regulation No. 302/2005 of 8 February 2005 on the application of EURATOM safeguards. -IAEA safeguards agreements (see line 16 of the table). -Act of 15 April 1994 establishing FANC. -Royal Decree of 20 July 2001 on general regulations for the protection of the population, workers and the environment against the hazards of ionizing radiation (RGPRI).	X	Failure to comply with the legislation referred to in the previous column is punishable by law. The Act of 15 April 1994 establishing FANC sets up a monitoring system. FANC inspectors, who have the status of officers of the law, investigate and report violations of the Act of 15 April 1994 and its implementing orders, as well as of the implementing legislation of the safeguards agreement and the implementing legislation of the Additional Protocol.	page 4 of the report

5 Other measures for accounting

6	Measures to secure production	X	All activities relating to nuclear materials — as well as radioactive materials — in the civilian area are monitored by the Federal Agency for Nuclear Control (FANC). The major relevant legal standards are as follows: - Act of 2 April 2003, which provides for a comprehensive revision of the physical protection regulations; FANC has been charged with developing proposals. The main components of these regulations are being finalized. -Royal Decree of 20 July 2001 on general regulations for the protection of the population, workers and the environment against the hazards of ionizing radiation (RGPRI). - Act of 11 December 1998 on classification and security clearances, which concerns the classification of nuclear material and associated documents and requires that personnel have clearance.	X	Failure to comply with the legislation referred to in the previous column is punishable by law. The Act of 15 April 1994 establishing FANC sets up a monitoring system. FANC inspectors, who have the status of officers of the law, investigate and report violations of Act of 15 April 1994 and its implementing orders (incl. RGPRI). The inspectors are also charged with investigating and reporting violations of relevant provisions of the revised physical protection system.	page 4 of the report
